METHODOLOGY

RANKING

Rankings A, B and C correspond to law firms specialising in Tax ranked by the most prestigious legal directories (Chambers & Partners and Legal 500).

🗛 Band 1 🛛 🖁 Band 2 🛛 🕻 Band 3

Rankings A, B and C are based on the average assessment (A, B and C) of qualities/expertise in the different practice areas (Litigation, Advisory, Transfer pricing, Financial taxation, M&A and extraordinary transactions, VAT, Private Clients & Wealth management, Tax real estate, Patent Box, Criminal Law).

More specifically:

A The firm has a well-established presence in the market with a wide range of operations carried out for leading clients in the Tax sector; the team has transversal skills and is active in all Tax sub specializations; wide recognition and "high" reputation according to clients, peers and in general by all market observers contacted by our Research Center, including competitors.

B The firm is present and active in the market; the team has excellences in one or more – but not all – sub specializations; well-established and partially widespread reputation according to its clients and other lawyers' clients.

C The firm is present and active in the market; the team's expertise has a primary focus on a specific practice area; recommendations are mostly received by its clients.

The symbol indicates that the firm is included in the Report for the first time.

The following signs $\blacktriangle \equiv \checkmark$ indicate:

• whether the firm ranking has changed compared to last year, i.e. whether it is moving up, moving down or is stable.

• whether the team has changed compared to last year, i.e. whether it is increasing in size, decreasing or is stable.

MARKET TRENDS

Over the past 12 months, the trends that we tracked in the 2018 report have been confirmed. First of all, the profound transformation of the role of the tax advisor is still a work in progress. The regulatory framework is increasingly fragmented and ever-changing due to the twin impacts of European legislation and OECD. The tax advisor is required increasingly to be an allround expert, able to overcome the barrier between tax and legal in favor of a broad and in-depth view of the market, not only to prevent and manage risks but also to guide their clients toward the most concrete and lucrative opportunities for their business. The dialogue with the Revenue Agency at national and regional levels to define in advance specific and complex issues, related to, for example to new investments in Italy, and in general to reach an agreement that gives certainty to costs and benefits, is becoming common practice. While in the past the length and the cost connected to certain procedures led to other methods, today the emphasis is on having the most clarity and transparency on local and international fiscal measures to be able to predict their impacts and minimize their risks, thus avoiding facing long and unpredictable disputes. Also in this case the advisor's choice is guided by well-defined criteria: The advisor is chosen not only for his expertise but also and above all for his local and international reputation and his ability to act profitably and positively with the bodies in charge.

In this atmosphere, the hottest topics are those related to the digital economy, which continue to pose many questions and important challenges from the taxation point of view. In the globalized panorama of the world economy, in fact, tax policies have had to confront the high mobility of taxpayers and capital, the high number of cross-border transactions and internationalization of financial structures. At an international level, the adoption of the "BEPS package" which has pushed the various countries of the Union towards the adoption of international standards and common methods of approach still represents, after four years, a "Best practice." At the EU level all attempts to find a binding international agreement are sabotaged at the last minute and the actions carried out by individual countries on their own are likely to increase complexity and uncertainty, not only for the large global enterprises of the digital economy, but also for all small and medium-sized businesses that operate on an international basis and that could suffer the greatest impacts from the difficulties linked to this context.

More generally, what emerges from the analysis of survey participant submissions is that in the last 12 months most tax practice groups have had to litigate transfer pricing issues in particular and, for the more general firms, to the activity of Tax M&A, which confirms the dynamism shown by the sector in Italy. It is precisely in this area that very important transactions have been recorded, such as: the acquisition of Abertis by Atlantia, the sale of the Mediaset Premium pay TV platform to Sky, the acquisition of Pioneer by Amundi, the sale of Versace to Michael Kors and the sale of Recordati to CVC, all operations where the structuring of the tax system was particularly complex and decisive for the success of the deals themselves.
